Medieval tower, that was part of the Baron of Finestrat's Palace that dated back to the XVI century. In it's day the tower was the defence tower of the palace. It is now actually being used as a home but needs reform, the tower has some 562m2 and is situated in Benasau. It has excellent possibilities to convert into a hotel or a very special home. But taking into account that in both cases, one would have to follow the rules and have approval from the Generalitat Valenciana, as this tower has been declared, of cultural interest to Spanish patrimony. It has 8 rooms, two kitchens, 2 toilets, a vaulted cellar of Silares and an enclosure that was the old prison. Benasau is a village of 198 inhabitants of the area of the Comtat, a village that retains the true charm of the rural villages of the area and the warmth of its people, it is also an area highly appreciated by
